

Balaklava – TermoSwed[®] Tactical Hood, thermo lined

The basis material TermoSwed[®] is used by goods for all outdoor activities. TermoSwed[®] is unbeaten with regard to high physical impacts. The insulating property is excellent either regarding drought or wetness. If garments of TermoSwed[®] and cotton are wet through, both materials need the same time to dry. The only difference is the fact that a 50 % wet TermoSwed[®] piece of clothing has the same insulating property as dry piece of clothing made of cotton. If both pieces of clothing are dry TermoSwed[®] insulate 50 % better than cotton. TermoSwed[®] stands for optimal wetness transfer. The thin material and the extreme small stitches provide for a high carrying comfort and best insulation at low temperatures. Suitable for missions within +10° C to -15° C at best.

TIP: Wear a TermoSwed[®] tactical hood in the sleeping bag at night, as a high percentage of the body heat will be lost by the head.

Material	- TermoSwed [®]
Colour	- Black
Cleaning instruction	- TermoSwed [®] -tactical hoods are easy to clean: machine wash at 60° C. First washing separately, as excessive colour can leach out.
Article-No.	- 0910202
Notes	- PLEASE NOTE: The mummery prohibition enjoins the participants of demonstrations from hiding faces or carrying along objects (hoods) which are intended of hiding the face in order to avoid the proof of identity. A mummery prohibition exists in Germany, Austria and some cantons of Switzerland among others. In Germany the mummery prohibition is ruled in § 17a Passage 2 Gathering Law and is punished by prison sentence or is fined in § 27 Passage 2 or § 29 (2). The mummery prohibition was agreed by Lower House of German Parliament in Germany on 28th June 1985.